

All

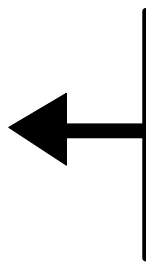

our

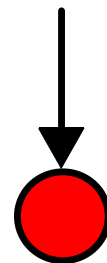

Super-Heroes

will be back

at

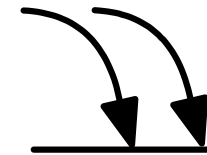

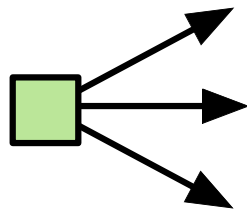

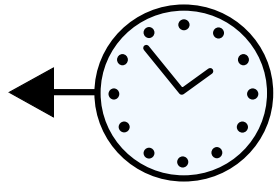

school!

School has been closed since Christmas for most children because Coronavirus was spreading too quickly again.

The scientists

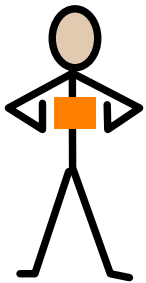

said

we needed to keep

everyone

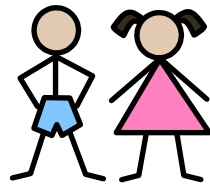

as safe

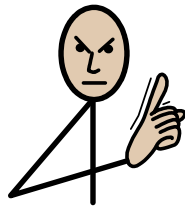

as possible.

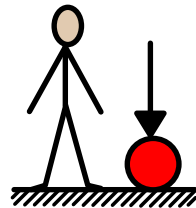

Most

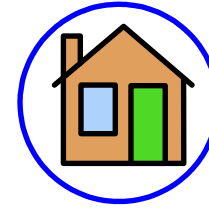

children

had to stay at home

but you

were

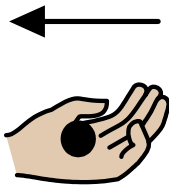

a 'come-to-school'

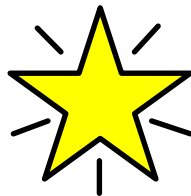

super-hero

and had a special

mission

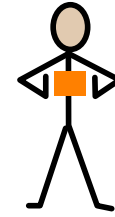

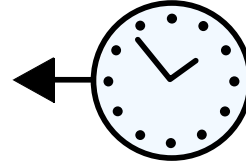

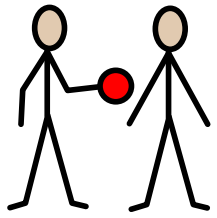

to learn

school.

Your special mission was to keep learning at school because your grown-ups were needed for their own special missions.

You have been a fantastic 'come to school' super-hero and have completed the special learn at school mission.

Well done and thank you!

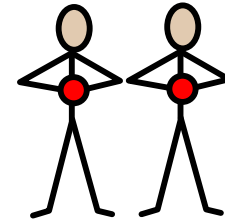

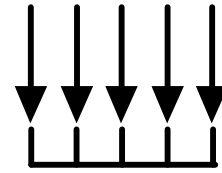

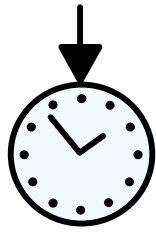

The scientists, who are studying coronavirus say that it is not spreading as fast as it was because most people have stayed at home.

So now it is safe for all our 'stay-at-home' super-heroes to start their 'back to school' mission.

Your

new

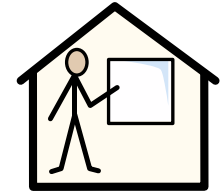

mission

is to help

the

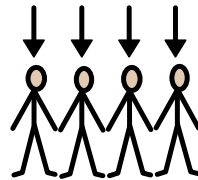

school

grown-ups

welcome

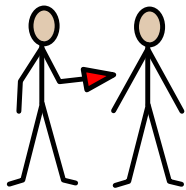

everyone

back to

as

you

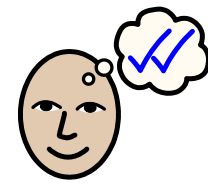

are

learn-at-school

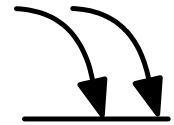

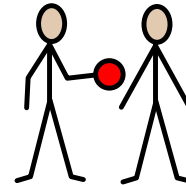

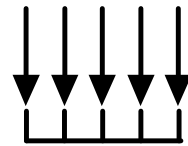

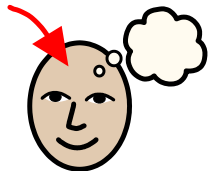

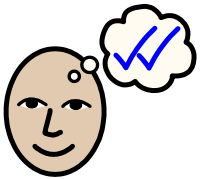

experts.

We are really looking forward to welcoming everyone back and you will be able to learn with all your friends again.

might have lots of different

feelings

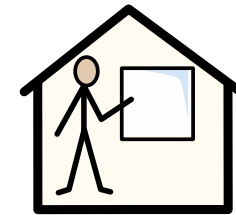

about

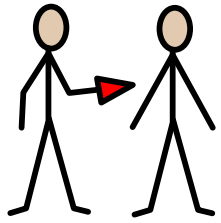

everyone

coming back to school.

feel

happy,

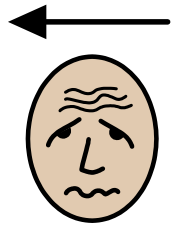

sad,

excited

or worried.

It is

ok

to have

some of these

feelings.

It is important that you share how you are feeling with your home and school grown-ups.

Your home and school grown-ups are always here to help you. Even super-heroes need help sometimes!

When

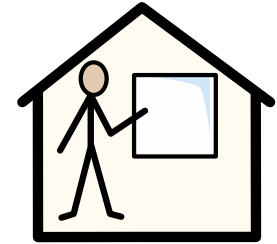

everyone

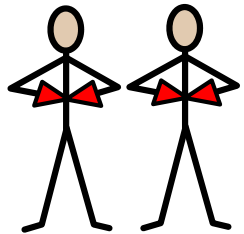

comes back

we

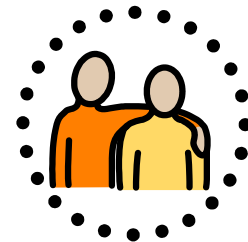

will

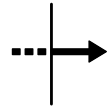

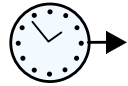

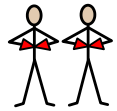

keep

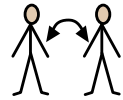

each other

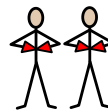

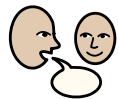

safe.

We will carry on washing our hands, giving each other space, telling a grown-up if we feel unwell or worried and uphold our Golden Values.

We

will

do

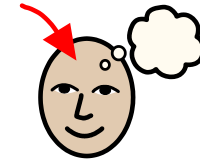

lots

of

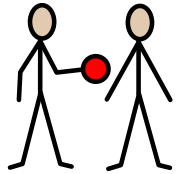

fun

learning

grown-ups

be

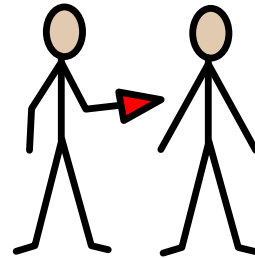

there

to

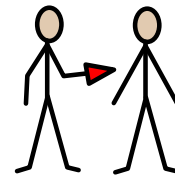

help

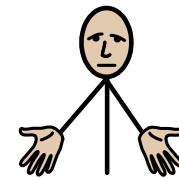

you

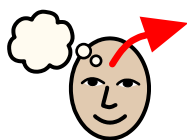

if

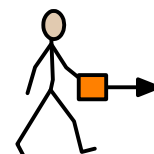

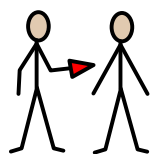

you

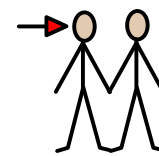

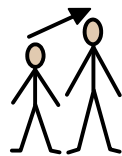

need it.

Remember... at Stanford Infants if you have a worry you can take a bubble to any school grown-up and they will help you!

So 'come-to-school' super heroes are you ready to welcome and support your friends back to school?

We hope so,

we are very proud of you!
